DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Judge Joe Brown, who presided over the tempestuous trial of Jack Ruby in 1964, died Tuesday following a heart attack.

Brown, 60, was stricken at his home earlier in the day.

He was elected a district judge in 1957. He became a justice of peace in 1934.

The judge, a colorful man in Dallas legal circles, was married last year to Joy Carles, a widow. He and his first wife were divorced.

Brown's son, Joe B. Brown Jr., is a lawyer and a justice of the peace in Dallas.

Ruby received the death sentence in Brown's court after his trial for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy. Ruby died of cancer Jan. 3, 1967.

Senate refuses limit on debate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate refused by seven votes Tuesday to invoke a time limit on debate so that a civil rights bill could be brought to a vote.

Backers of the measure called the outcome "a significant victory," however, and said they are within shooting distance of their goal.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana moved for a test vote Wednesday on an open housing section, and announced he will try again next Monday to bring the basic bill to a showdown.

In Tuesday's test, supporters of the bill were able to muster only 55 votes, or 7 short of the two-thirds majority needed to invoke cloture.

Arrayed against the debate-closing rule were 37 senators, mainly Southern Democrats and Republican conservatives.

The setback for civil rights forces came in the face of an appeal by President Johnson for passage of the bill and a telegram from Gov. George Romney urging all Republican senators to vote for cloture.

Romney, who is campaigning for the GOP presidential nomination, said it is important to demonstrate "to those still suffering from social and racial injustice that needed changes can be made without lawlessness, violence and civil guerrilla warfare."

"I hope Dick Nixon will join me in urging Republican senators to take this needed action," Romney said.

The legislation, which has held the Senate in listless debate since Congress reconvened Jan. 15, is designed to protect Negroes and civil rights workers against racial violence.

The housing amendment that will be voted on Wednesday would outlaw any discrimination in the sale or rental of housing.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., cosponsor of the amendment, said Tuesday's vote "established beyond any doubt that sooner or later, and probably sooner, a sweeping fair housing law will be adopted by the United States Senate."

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., floor manager for the civil rights bill, called the initial test "a significant victory." He and one of his Republican supporters, Sen. Jacob K. Javits of New York, told newsmen they may modify the housing amendment in a bid for more votes.

As it stands, Javits said, it represents "the maximum housing package." Hart estimated it would cover 97 per cent of all housing. They said they may move to eliminate single-family dwellings from coverage in an effort to attract more support.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., cosponsor with Mondale of the housing section, said its adoption would be "a giant step in race relations."

Javits said those opposing it had "better think about it very, very seriously" in terms of possible racial unrest this summer.

Mansfield tagged Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois as the key man in the effort to invoke cloture.

Dirksen opposed what he called a gag rule. He told the Senate that "the country is filled with fever and controversy and we had better be precise and careful what goes on the books."

Arrest made after two bank holdups

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Two downtown banks were robbed within five minutes Tuesday and six hours later a man was arrested and charged with both holdups.

In each robbery, a lone gunman walked up to the tellers and demanded money, then fled into the street crowded with shoppers.

Tellers at both banks, only two blocks apart, described the bandit as glassy-eyed, leading police to believe he may have been under the influence of narcotics or alcohol.

Kenneth Hetrick, 28, was arrested at his home in North Braddock about 5:30 p.m. Police and the FBI said they traced him through a taxi cab and detailed search of the neighborhood.

Hetrick was charged with robbing the Pittsburgh National Bank, where hidden cameras filmed the holdup, and the robbery of the Union National Bank.

The FBI said Hetrick was identified through pictures. Agents said most of the loot, totaling less than $5,500, was recovered.

Taxes top committee barrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — A billion-dollar package of President Johnson's tax proposals cleared Tuesday the congressional barrier that still hampers his requested boost in income taxes.

The House Ways and Means Committee approved a bill to extend present automobile and telephone service excise taxes that otherwise would drop soon and to speed up the collection of corporate income tax.

These measures are estimated to be worth $1.1 billion in extra revenue during the remainder of this fiscal year—ending June 30—and $2.66 billion for the following year.

Johnson also wants a 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes to produce $10 billion or more a year against an estimated $20-billion deficit for 1969. But the committee continues to sit on that proposal.

However, it did vote to include in its report on the excise taxes a statement, still to be written, that approval of these does not necessarily mean discarding the rest of Johnson's proposals.

Highlights of the bill approved Tuesday, and expected to go to the House for a vote next week:

The automobile excise tax, instead of dropping from the present 7 per cent to 2 per cent April 1, 1968, and then to 1 per cent Jan. 1, 1969, would continue at 7 per cent through 1968 and 1969. During 1970 it would be 5 per cent, during 1971 3 per cent, during 1972 1 per cent. It would drop off entirely Jan. 1, 1973.

The telephone excise tax, instead of dropping to 3 per cent April 1, 1968, would continue at the present 10 per cent through 1968 and 1969. The rate would be 5 per cent during 1970, 3 per cent during 1971 and 1 per cent during 1972, dropping off entirely Jan. 1, 1973.

These extensions are estimated to bring in $306 million extra revenue during fiscal 1968 and $2.66 billion next year.

Under present law, corporations are required to estimate their taxes and pay them currently in four annual installments. However, the first $100,000 of tax due need not be paid currently, so that some small corporations pay no tax currently and all corporations get to use up to $100,000 of income longer. The $100,000 in all cases, of course, must ultimately be paid.

Florida to use teachers without state certification

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The State Cabinet authorized hiring of uncertified substitute teachers Tuesday in an emergency effort to reopen Florida schools closed by a massive walkout by teachers.

And, as the partial shutdown threatened heavy damage to the state's economy, several school boards went into county courts seeking injunctions to force the teachers back into classrooms. Most of the nonworking teachers said they had resigned.

Officials of the Classroom Teachers Association (CTA) claimed that the walkout was gaining momentum and that rising pressure on teachers indicated they were winning their fight for more tax dollars for education.

Schools were closed in 22 of the 67 counties and partially in others. In all, more than 25,000 of the state's some 60,000 teachers stayed off the job and more than 500,000 of Florida's 1.3 million public school pupils were shut out of their classrooms.

Robby Martinez, executive secretary of the Hillsborough County (Tampa) CTA, told 3,950 teachers at a regional meeting in Tampa to "expect the greatest pressure to be put on you today." He said this was "a good sign, an indication the teachers are winning."

In California, Republican Gov. Claude Kirk said, "I wouldn't call the situation excellent, but it doesn't appear to be bad. It appears that all the small counties are operating. Our problem is in the big 10 counties."

Warnings that a prolonged school closing would bring disastrous economic consequences on the state came from Florida's top financial officers.

Comptroller Fred Dickinson said it would do more to "affect the money image of Florida" than anything in history except the 1860 secession from the Union and the bank closings of the 1928-30 depression.

On Kirk's desk, awaiting his signature or veto, was a $254.5 million financial bill passed by a special session of the legislature during his absence.

North Vietnam reportedly prepared to discuss peace

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant was reported ready Tuesday to tell President Johnson the North Vietnamese are willing to discuss anything the Americans want if the United States will stop bombing their country.

Nguyen Tho Chank

Diplomatic sources said Thant got that word from North Vietnamese he saw on his recent trip abroad and he would pass it along to Johnson when the two meet in Washington Wednesday.

They said Thant was told specifically that the North Vietnamese would start the talks promptly, once U.S. military actions against North Vietnam ended, and that general military de-escalation in South Vietnam could be one item on the agenda.

But they also said the North Vietnamese still insisted the cessation of bombing be unconditional and turned down the U.S. demand that they not take advantage of any such cessation by stepping up infiltration into South Vietnam.

It was reported Tuesday night that Nguyen Tho Chank, North

Vietnam's ambassador to Moscow, is in Sweden with possible peace "feelers."

Accordingly, diplomats generally did not believe Thant would persuade Johnson to stop the bombing.

They figured he had asked to see Johnson mainly because he had already seen the leaders of four other key countries in the last two weeks and wanted to get the President's views so that he would have a complete picture of the thinking on Vietnam.

The secretary-general will call on the President at the White House at 11 a.m. He will lunch with Secretary of State Dean Rusk at the State Department afterward. Thant will travel to and from Washington by U.S. government plane, going at 9:30 a.m. and returning at 4:30 or 5. U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, an American, will be with him. U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg will go along.

Appeared in California

Brown arrested for unauthorized trip

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown was arrested in a West Side Manhattan apartment Tuesday and accused of making an unauthorized weekend trip to California to promote his militant Black Power crusade. The journey could cost him $25,000 in forfeited bonds.

Brown, 24, head of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, currently is in the toils of federal courts in New Orleans, La., and Richmond, Va. In both cases, his travel had been restricted by federal edict.

Brown was arrested here at the request of the New Orleans federal court. Because of the West Coast trip, the government wants Brown jailed on a pending federal gun charge there, and his $15,000 bail forfeited.

At the same time, the U.S. attorney's office in Richmond, Va., wants to put Brown behind bars there, and to foreclose on a $10,000 bond. That case involves a riot last summer in Cambridge, Md.

The lanky, mustached Brown, a firebrand among national Negro leaders, appeared Saturday at an Oakland, Calif., rally to raise money for a Negro accused there of killing a policeman. The government said he made a similar appearance in Los Angeles before returning to New York.

A New Orleans federal indictment charges that Brown last August carried a rifle with him on a flight from New York to New Orleans and back, while under federal indictment in the Maryland rioting.

At the time of his arrest, Brown said in reference to President Johnson as head of the federal government: "If he is worried about my rifle, wait until I get my atom bomb."

Federal Judge Lansing Mitchell placed Brown under $15,000 federal bond in New Orleans last September. The judge ordered that Brown be restricted in his movements to New Orleans, New York or SNCC headquarters in Atlanta, unless he obtained specific permission.

On Monday, Mitchell ordered Brown's bail revoked and said his West Coast trip "flagrantly violated conditions for bail."

The Cambridge, Md., case involved racial rioting there after Brown made a speech July 24. A school building was burned during the disturbance.

Brown subsequently was charged by Maryland officials with inciting to arson and riot. He was arrested on a federal fugitive warrant in Virginia and currently is fighting extradition to Maryland.

Even as Judge Mitchell in New Orleans was taking judicial note of Brown's West Coast trip, so was federal Judge Robert R. Merhige, Jr., in Richmond, Va.

Merhige had placed Brown under $10,000 bond in Richmond, and restricted his travels outside that area to New York, except for such trips as might be necessary in connection with the various charges against him.

The government charged that Brown had violated this order, and Merhige ordered Brown to return to Richmond for a hearing in the matter.

Last Jan. 10, Brown took refuge for nearly six hours inside the Cuban mission to the United Nations after an altercation outside with a New York City policeman. He later received a summons, charging him with harassment of the officer.

Saigon drive may open today

SAIGON (AP) — American infantrymen caught up with a band of Viet Cong storming through Saigon's northeastern suburbs Tuesday and killed 123 in a blazing, four-hour battle.

And northwest of the capital, government rangers said they killed 32 guerrillas in a gun battle near the Phu Tho cemetery.

The fighting, coupled with a light rocket attack on Tan Son Nhut air base, came amid reports that another Communist drive on Saigon was in the offing.

The Communist high command, thwarted in its initial efforts to seize Saigon at the lunar new year, was said to have called for leveling of the capital in attacks before the month is out.

Rumors raced through Saigon of an impending Viet Cong assault in the early morning hours Wednesday as artillery barrages and air strikes rumbled in outlying areas. Flares lighted the sky and explosions could be heard clearly in the heart of the city.

Private sources said they heard that up to two battalions of Viet Cong—perhaps 800 men—were in action west of the city. But military authorities said they had no word of any significant incidents there or elsewhere in the immediate area of the capital.

Saigon police and allied troops were already on full alert for developments in the second wave, which dwindled after its opening with rocket and mortar attacks on 47 centers and a few ground assaults across the country Sunday.

Intelligence advices reaching the U.S. mission said Viet Cong of Kien Hoa Province, in the Mekong Delta, had been told the second wave would run to the end of February, ordered them to supply maximum reinforcements for a new battle for Saigon, and said that the aim was to destroy the city.

The Communists were estimated to have 10,000 to 15,000 men within a day's march of Saigon, including units of the 7th North Vietnamese Division and the 5th and 9th Viet Cong divisions. Far more allied troops are close at hand.

Communist crews kept up their widely spaced shelling of Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base, losing four rounds of rocket or mortar fire Tuesday, U.S. military spokesmen said one round exploded between two runways, causing neither damage nor casualties, and the others fell just outside the perimeter.

Tan Son Nhut, one of the busiest airports in the world, handles both military and commercial traffic for the South Vietnamese capital. The base has been attacked several times in the course of the war, but has become a prime target since the Viet Cong launched their lunar new year offensive at the end of January.

The South Vietnamese command reported government planes bombed several enemy aircraft gun spots 2½ miles south of the base, but had no immediate information on the results. Ground troops were to sweep the area at daybreak.

Far to the north, the fighting for Hue entered its 22nd day. Though under heavy allied pressure, Communist troops still held out in rock piles that once were walls and buildings of the Citadel.

Holland quits political wars

Wallace calls off speaking tour of Philadelphia today

HARRISBURG (AP) — Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace Tuesday cancelled a campaign excursion into Philadelphia at the request of city Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo.

"I am cancelling my speech in Philadelphia at the request of Police Commissioner Frank Rizzo," the third party presidential candidate said in a terse statement released by an aide. There was no immediate elaboration.

Wallace was in Harrisburg for an 8 p. m. speech and had planned to fly directly to Philadelphia for a campaign appearance today.

In a Harrisburg news conference, Wallace predicted he would win the presidency if he could equal the 27 million votes cast for Republican Barry Goldwater four years ago.

"Barry Goldwater was a darn good man, but he wasn't the best candidate around," Wallace said, adding:

"Barry Goldwater didn't have the strength we have," the founder of the American Independent Party continued. "If I got the same vote he received, with three candidates in the race, that would be enough to win."

Goldwater polled only 27.1 million votes as the Republican nominee in 1964 to 43.1 million for President Johnson.

Wallace repeated during his 45-minute news conference the basic tenets of his states' rights campaign.

"Neither of the two national parties have indicated a readiness to turn government back to the people," he declared.

"If there is a deadlock and the election goes to the House of Representatives, I would make one of the candidates make a covenant, a promise, to the people that they will turn these institutions back to the people."

Among the items he specifically cited were operation of the schools and hospitals, legislative and congressional apportionment and no open housing law, which Wallace labeled "anti-property owner statutes."

On race relations, particularly in the public schools, he declared:

"I object to government forcing people to do things they don't want to do. You can have any kind of school system you want in Pennsylvania. But they don't have to have the same thing in Alabama.

"I've been honest on race relations, others haven't. There's been too much hypocrisy on this and it's what is hurting race relations in this country. Everybody who's honest is labeled a racist."

Wallace's chartered DC-6 aircraft was met at Olmsted State Airport by approximately 30 supporters who hailed him as "a real American."

A security detail of some 10 state policemen also was on hand as a precautionary measure. They were assigned to remain with him throughout his Harrisburg stay. Wallace also has six members of the Alabama State Highway Patrol traveling with him.

The former chief executive said he has more than the 10,551 signatures required to place him on the Pennsylvania general election ballot, but added his papers would not be filed until more were collected.

Gen. White Board of Regents succumbs at age 55 possibility slim

HARRISBURG (AP) — Two prominent state officials — Adj. Gen. Thomas R. White and legislative researcher Guy W. Davis — died unexpectedly within minutes of each other early Tuesday.

The 55-year-old White, a Philadelphia lawyer and career officer in the National Guard, was stricken at his quarters at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation, 20 miles east of Harrisburg.

Davis, 67-year-old veteran director of the Joint State Government Commission, research agency of the state legislature, collapsed in the cafeteria at the State Capitol. Davis was pronounced dead on arrival at Harrisburg Hospital.

Both men were the apparent victims of heart attacks. Both had been about their normal affairs on Monday.

Gen. White informed a caretaker he was ill, but White himself called the military dispensary and was given first aid there. Officials said he died en route to Good Samaritan Hospital in neighboring Lebanon.

Davis, a resident of Polcroft, Delaware County, had been associated with the Joint State Government Commission since 1948. His widow and a daughter, Miss Rida Davis, survive.

White was appointed adjutant general in 1963 by then Gov. William W. Scranton. He was reappointed to the $25,000 cabinet post in 1967 by Gov. Shafer.

White's reappointment became the subject of controversy when a group of retired National Guard officers charged that White had bypassed Maj. Gen. Henry J. Pluck, then commander of the 28th Division, in making certain staff assignments. This, White denied.

White and Pluck both testified at a closed session of a Senate committee considering White's nomination. White ultimately was confirmed. Pluck resigned and was succeeded in command of the 28th by Brig. Gen. Nicholas P. Kafkas, one of the two assistant division commanders.

White enlisted in the Army Reserve in 1933 and became a second lieutenant in 1936. Even though he held the commission, he enlisted as a private in the 103rd Engineers, Pennsylvania National Guard, in 1939.

HARRISBURG (AP) — Prospects appear slim again for legislative passage this year of a three-year old proposal to create a statewide board of regents for the 14 state-owned and operated colleges.

"I wouldn't be optimistic," replied Sen. Richard C. Frame, R-Venango, chairman of the State Government Committee which has been holding the bill since August of last year.

Frame was queried in the wake of the recent resignations of three state college presidents — two of them reportedly resigning from policy disputes with their local state college boards of trustees.

"No one has been able to convince the majority of the committee that a statewide board of regents would make for improved administration of the state colleges," Frame remarked.

The plan to convert the 14 local boards into advisory units and transfer administrative authority to a nine-member board of regents has been kicking around in the legislature for three years.

The proposal was conceived first by the State Board of Education's Master Plan for Higher Education and promptly supported by former Gov. William W. Scranton and his successor, Gov. Shafer.

Scranton, however, failed to get the bill out of Senate committee in 1965 and Shafer fared no better in 1967. Under the continuing session constitutional amendment approved last May, the measure may be considered by the General Assembly this year if the lawmakers so desired.

What served to spotlight the legislature's hostile attitude toward the bill was the resignations of Dr. Christie at Millersville; Dr. Robert S. Carter at Slippery Rock, and Dr. Fred Bryan at Mansfield.

Dr. David H. Kurtzman, superintendent of public instruction, said Christie stepped down in light of differences with his board.

Mine fire boils well water

NEW STRATTSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — After 84 years, a mine fire that abruptly ended little New Strattsville's role as a major coal center is leaving new reminders that it remains untamed.

Mrs. Clara Spencer has boiling water in her well and smoke pours through 20-foot cracks in the road.

More smoke still trickles from a section of Ohio 216 undercut and collapsed by the fire five years ago—one of many such spots endangered before the fire went into a period of relative dormancy.

'Bargains' by mail not true

HARRISBURG — With offers of cheaper cigarettes by mail beginning to flood some areas of Pennsylvania, State Secretary of Revenue, Warner M. Depuy has issued a warning that these are not the bargains they appear to be.

The offers, appearing in magazines and coming in by direct mail, are enticing Pennsylvania smokers to buy cigarettes from mail order firms in North Carolina where there is no state cigarette tax. Savings up to one dollar per carton are the bait.

Depuy said the deal is a trap, because the buyers are still liable for the Pennsylvania tax of $1.30 per carton. His department, he advises, is actively following up these sales and collecting the state tax in many instances leaving the purchaser finally paying more than he would have paid at his local store. Buyers are also liable to a fine of $23 per carton for possession of unstamped cigarettes.

Some of these companies, Depuy adds, are also falling aloul of the Federal law which requires them to register in the states where they do business.

The commonwealth is currently filing two cases with United States District Attorney Drew O'Keefe's office in Philadelphia for the failure of these companies to comply with the Federal law. Penalties in these cases can be fines up to $1,000.00.

Citizens of Tocks Island area to form association

MILFORD — Since the autumn of 1965, efforts have been made to form a Citizens Assn. in the Tocks Island area. Now, after a year and a half of planning, the official organization of such an association is scheduled to take place here at Tom Quick Inn, on Saturday, March 16.

In the interval since the first steering committee meeting to explore the possibilities of forming a citizens association, much of the basic groundwork for organization has been laid. The association has been chartered; by-laws and a statement of purposes have been written. Officers, pro-tem, have been serving in order that these basic organizational cornerstones might be placed.

At the dinner meeting, scheduled to be held at 6 p.m., directors will be elected by the interested persons attending.

These directors will, in turn, elect officers to serve the association in its initial year of operation.

Prime purpose
Since one of the prime general purposes of the association will be to provide the citizens of the area with the means to intelligently appraise area problems, the latest available information on the Tocks Island Dam and Delaware Water Gap National Recreation Area will be reported at the Milford meeting.

These reports, while brief, will be geared to bring those present up to date on project progress and will be given by Col. William W. W. a l k i n, district engineer, Philadelphia District, United States Army Engineers, and Peter DeGell-cke, park superintendent for the National Recreation Area.

Frank W. Dressler, executive director of the Tocks Island Regional Advisory Council, has been serving as Secretary and assisting president Jack Harford of Port Jervis, in the necessary spadework to launch the association.

The citizens association, which will be known officially as the Tocks Island Citizens Association or TICA, will be completely divorced from THAC or any other governmental bureau or agency. The programs it will develop to promote regional growth study and disseminate information in the seven county Tocks Island area will be oriented for general citizen benefit.

The steering committee members, in discussing guidelines for the association, have been pointing continuously towards the concept of an organization which will neither hesitate to criticize, nor refrain from cooperating with, political subdivisions or governmental agencies involved in the Tocks Island project.

Two book collections on agenda

PEN ARGYL — Mrs. Linda Rinehart, librarian at the Pen Argyl Area High School, has announced that a collection of 845 new library books will be on display in the high school library from Monday, to March 1.

During the same period, books for the elementary grades will be on display in the library at the Plainfield Township Elementary School in Belfast.

Both displays will be open from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Fifty-four leading publishers cooperate to present an industry-wide and complete exhibit that school systems and libraries across the country have rated over the years as an indispensable book reviewing and selection resource. In range, it covers more than 60 subject classifications.

For every elementary and high school pupil — not to mention the parent or adult interested in keeping abreast of today's instructional program — there are stories covering every phase of experience, as well as non-fiction books on science, mathematics, the arts and general information.

From picture and easy books at the primary level to a varied assortment of titles in reading and literature, social studies, music, and guidance at high school grades — there are books to engage, inform and instruct.

No injuries in two-car accident

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg Police reported no injuries in a two-car crash Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. on N. Courtland St.

Drivers of the vehicles were Thaddeus E. Kirk, 47, of 408 Oakwood Ave., Stroudsburg, and Sandra E. Lee, 18, of 375 N. Courtland St., East Stroudsburg.

According to police, Kirk had pulled from the parking lot at R. C. Cramer Lumber Co. into N. Courtland St. as Miss Lee, was also traveling north and the two cars collided.

Police estimate damage at $600 to each other.

Selling Poconos not hard for 'discoverer' of region

By PEGGY BANCROFT
Pocono Record Reporter
NEWFOUNDLAND — All you need to sell something is the conviction that it's the best ever.

Helen Jung finds it a simple job to "sell the Poconos," because she knows it's the most wonderful place in the world.

She's Mrs. Werner D. Jung (pronounced Young) and she is the new livewire, secretary-salesman-booth manner-activities planner and Poconos-booster for the Lake Wallenpaupack Assn.

You may have wondered why the information booth on Route Six at Wilsonville on Lake Wallenpaupack looked so festive at holiday time, and why, when you stopped to ask questions, you saw first a huge, blossoming potted plant, and second, a welcoming smile.

It's all Helen Jung's doing... she's the gal with the answers to a million questions (from fishermen at 6 a.m., and from lost vacationers at midnight) about the Poconos.

Helen Jung has lived in the Poconos for 23 years. She and Mr. Jung, who retired in 1965, operated Pike County Lodge at Tafton as a summer resort.

In 1959, Mr. Jung was sent to Japan to do engineering work for the Japanese government — something to do with synthetic rubber — and Mrs. Jung went along, closing the lodge for one and one-half years. With typical enthusiasm (anywhere is home, and home is happy) they enjoyed the re-location, and, upon returning to the United States, took "the long way round" — around the world in 80 days, more or less. It was a tremendous experience.

Talking with Mrs. Jung gives one the impression that wherever she is, whatever she is doing, is a tremendous experience. She enjoys people, places, things... in short, she enjoys living, and, while she gets a great deal out of life, she puts a great deal into the business of it, too.

The Jungs came from the south — he from Philadelphia, and she from Virginia. They had lived for six years in Bucks County, where Mrs. Jung, a member of the Soroptimist Club of Bucks county, was a ceramist, operating her own kiln and ceramics business. She had studied with Mildred Keyser, originator of Pennsylvania Arts and Crafts, who had revived interest in the Dutchland pottery in the 1930's.

Then the Jungs discovered the Poconos. They saw the lakes, the mountains, the forests, the blue, blue sky... bluer than any sky that ever domed a city.

This "most pleasant" land became their land immediately, and they set about with characteristic enthusiasm to learn all about it.

Realizing that to really love a place, they must know its history and its foibles, Mr. Jung joined the Hawley-Lake Wallenpaupack Chamber of Commerce, not as a sometimes member, but as an active one. She designed, created, struggled over and produced the first Resort and Business Directory, complete with the first scale map of the area done from the Coast and Geodetic Survey. She had begun "selling the Poconos."

Now, for the first time, the booth is manned (or women-ed) every day, all day long. The place has taken on a new look, a lively air of interest, even to the perky pony on the desk.

Day or night, telephone contact may be made with a "bridged" phone set-up that keeps Helen Jung in touch with people who have questions to ask about the Poconos.

Kennedy image starts to weaken

We get the feeling that the ranks are thinning among those who think of Bobby Kennedy as an inevitable future President.

He wants the job all right, but so do half the governors and U.S. senators. So does Richard Nixon, so does Harold Stassen, so does Billy Nelson and an impossible-to-count number of college sophomores throughout the nation.

Kennedy's ambition is more realistic than most but it is more obvious than most. His growing weakness could be that he confuses what's good for his country with what's good for Bobby Kennedy.

Bobby has always come across as a person of energy and determination, seldom at a loss for an opinion and surrounded by clever people with ideas. He didn't have to aim at making a million dollars. He was born with that. So he set out to help make his brother President and, incidentally, himself the heir apparent.

Then in Dallas came tragedy for the U.S. and catastrophe to Kennedy timetables. Bobby Kennedy had to scramble.

What seems to be obvious is that Kennedy views President Johnson as an obstacle and thus a political adversary. What is disconcerting is that in the most tender areas of controversy, Kennedy appears deliberately to have chosen a stance that argues with the administration; and beyond that a stance that is intended more to excite and irritate than to be constructive.

He condemns poverty, war, crime, street riots, turned-on collegians and our uncertain allies as though they were new problems, suddenly uncovered as weaknesses that government must overcome with immediate legislation.

What he would do is vague. What he is doing is sniping with the apparent intent of promoting discontent.

We have long had the feeling that Kennedy would make a good President — someday — but we wonder at his performance that seems so clearly to be selfish. Putting his own ambition ahead of the Democratic Party could be necessary but putting it ahead of his country, as he seems to be, is unhealthy for all, including Kennedy.

Noisy sonic booms may become numerous

Things are certain to get worse before they get better in the sonic boom department.

One night last week when we hope 98 per cent of Monroe County and environs was peacefully piling up its quota of sleep, something over half that 98 per cent were rocked from slumber by a blast. It would have been no louder, we're sure, if an atomic bomb, Hiroshima-size, had been dropped on Snyder'sville.

Most of us must have known immediately what it was that disturbed our sleep around 3 a.m. First of all, we've heard before the sonic booms caused by an aircraft flying faster than the speed of sound (which is somewhere over 700 mph, depending on temperature and altitude). Then second, the Air Force had warned us a few days ahead and The Record carried a story intimating that maneuvers that night would create extra noise and probably a sonic barrier or two would be broken.

It has been 21 years since a plane was first flown faster than sound and many types of military craft do it regularly. Some communities closer to training sites have been plagued by the booms for years and some folks have recovered damages for windows and crockery broken by the percussion. Monroe County's experience has been limited, thank goodness, although we have a happy parting thought:

Many commercial flights now fly over our heads leaving vapor trails but making little noise. They aren't supersonic — yet. In a few years they will be and it would be just about here that flights heading west from the metropolitan area would pick up enough speed to bust the barrier. We will, probably, get used to it.

Special Record report from campus

Chemistry demonstration: mild reaction

(Editor's note: The following report is from Elliot Brown, who as a part-timer in his senior year at Stroudsburg High and as a regular last summer, was a Pocono Record reporter. He is now a freshman at the Northwestern School of Journalism.)

By ELLIOT BROWN

EVANSTON, Ill. — For a few weeks, a sort of tension gripped Northwestern University, or at least the more concerned factions of the school. The point of the excitement arrived on campus today Feb. 14—recruiters from the Dow Chemical Co.

Dow Chemical makes napalm, the jellied gasoline which is used for warfare in Vietnam.

As the only suppliers of napalm, Dow has become a symbol to anti-Vietnam elements of what they call "the huge atrocity that the war itself is."

And the protestors will frankly admit that it is exactly what they consider Dow—a symbol. There are many industries contributing even more to the war effort than Dow, but the "inhumanity" of Dow's contribution has made them a center of the protest against the "military industrial" complex.

So, after being picketed, attacked, and otherwise molested on campuses all over this country, Dow today came to Northwestern.

The job of the Dow recruiters is to interview students interested in working for the company. The "job" of the protestors is to demonstrate his feelings about Dow. These two opposing elements culminated today in what is considered to be the largest demonstration ever held at Northwestern University.

Estimates of the number of participants have gone as high as 500, but this reporter would estimate that far more than half of the "participants" were onlookers.

But numbers or percentages can't measure the true feelings of a university, for, no doubt, many who would like to have come, including faculty members, went to class instead; and also some who did come were not members of the Northwestern community.

When the announcement that Dow would be here was made, the "ad hoc Committee Against War Recruiting" was immediately formed—its purpose to plan and coordinate the demonstration.

Since that time, debate has raged about free speech for both protestors and recruiters, the rights of those who wish to meet with the Dow recruiters, what the university stand will be if a demonstration takes place, and how it is to take place.

Resolutions have come from all sides of the campus: from student groups, faculty groups, administration, and even the campus security force.

But through the controversy, one thing remained clear: Dow would come and a protest would take place.

The university placement offices are located on Sheridan Rd., right in the middle of the campus. All business recruitment of graduates takes place in the 80 year old building.

But last Thursday, the university announced that Dow would recruit at McGraw Hall, the student sports center. It is located about one mile from the center of the campus, far from where most people are during the day.

The reason given for this unprecedented change was "to give the demonstrators more room." The true reason was obviously to get the demonstration off the main campus.

But those organizing the protest would not be fooled, and they elected to have their protest "on the campus, where it belongs." As one organizer said, "We won't play along with the university's game."

The peak of the protest, which lasted all day, was called for 1 p.m. when, it was said, the Dow recruiters would be in the placement center. The Dow recruiters were not there at 1, but the people were.

Since 9 in the morning, people had been marching, in varying small numbers, carrying such signs as "Peace on Earth," "Oven Cleaner, Yes-Napalm, No," "Hitler Loved the Children, Dow Makes Soap," and the famous "Dow shall not kill."

At 1, their numbers greatly swelled by the publicity that 1 was the appointed hour to be there, between 100 and 300 listened to speeches given by the protest leaders.

A nearby fraternity house, in the form of a "joke," accompanied the speeches with such music as the "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Caisson Song."

The tone of the entire protest was summed up by one speaker who said "We are not demonstrating against Dow. We are demonstrating against university complicity with the war effort—we're drowning in it."

The crowd, its numbers growing, then marched about five blocks to the Rebecca Crown Administration Center, the building where University President Dr. J. Roscoe Miller has his offices.

The group again rallied, chanting "We want Miller!" then some of the protestors actually attempted to enter the building to find him—their purpose to "hear what he has to say."

They were stopped by unarmed Northwestern security police.

The tensest moment in the day-long demonstration came when several of the demonstrators tried to lower an American flag to half-mast. They were stopped by the security policemen who prevented it by holding the rope.

When the lone policeman put a hand on someone's shoulder to keep him back, the crowd took up the chant: "police brutality."

The policeman let go of the rope and moved away from the crowd, but the flag stayed up.

Several more speeches were given, but the height of the protest had passed. The demonstration broke up, and all but a few of the protestors, who went back to continue picketing the placement center, went their separate ways.

The fact is, however, that despite the tremendous amounts of debate and a voluminous number of resolutions pertaining to "basic rights, basic freedoms, and basic responsibilities," no concrete conclusions were reached by anyone about anything over the past weeks.

The recruiters recruited, the protestors protested, the apathetic either ignored the whole show or watched it with a disinterested amusement, and no one got hurt.

One excellent result is that a segment of this academic community was able to communicate what they believe in to a massive public, simply by virtue of the publicity they received if nothing else.

And, although it does not seem as if a significant contribution has been made in any direction, there probably has been. Because, although Northwestern tomorrow will seem no different than it did four weeks ago, it is today definitely different than it was four years ago.

The demonstrators claim that their actions are of an evolutionary rather than a revolutionary nature, that they play only a small part in the entire movement. Time seems to be proving them right.

Navy protects spy ships

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — The Navy is providing limited emergency protection for U. S. intelligence-gathering ships operating in potentially dangerous areas of the world.

Since the USS Pueblo was seized by the North Koreans, naval aircraft or warships have been reassigned to guard and keep radio contact with U. S. spy-vessels operating in the Mediterranean, the Gulf of Tonkin, the Caribbean, and the Sea of Japan.

Naval authorities, in briefing members of the House Armed Services Committee on the plan recently, revealed that this emergency air-sea guard may already have averted another Pueblo-like disaster off the coast of Egypt in the Mediterranean.

The incident occurred Feb. 11 when U.S. carrier-based planes of U.S. Sixth Fleet made a show of force to ward off two Egyptian IL-28s, or Beagle jet bombers, en route to buzz or attack the Georgetown, a sister spy-ship of the USS Liberty.

The Liberty, larger than the Pueblo, was attacked and put out of commission by Israeli planes and torpedo boats about 15 miles north of the Sinai peninsula last June on the third day of the Arab-Israeli war.

IN INTERNATIONAL WATERS — At the time of the attack, buzzing or attack, the Georgetown was about 40 miles off the Egyptian coast north of Alexandria, where four Russian warships have been anchored for several weeks.

The air-sea guard was assigned the Georgetown two weeks ago after its crew had monitored several Egyptian government broadcasts warning that U.S. vessels caught spying on that country's military installations would meet the same fate as the Pueblo.

Another Arab broadcast picked up by the Georgetown praised the North Koreans for seizing the Pueblo and stressed that the Egyptians had the means to either capture or destroy spy-vessels caught in its waters.

The Georgetown is a 7,000-ton ship with a complement of 275 including 18 officers. It is classed by the Navy as an AGTR, meaning auxiliary technical research ship. The vessel carries more than $100 million worth of sensitive radar and radio listening devices. Other AGTRs, all converted freighters, include the Oxford, and the Jamestown.

Until the recent Georgetown incident, U.S. naval authorities were more concerned that Cuba's Premier Castro might try to duplicate Egypt's Nasser.

Since the Pueblo incident, several of the missile-firing patrol boats the Soviets gave Castro in 1962 have aggressively patrolled Cuban coastal waters in the general area that a U.S. spy-ship is operating.

A BITTER LESSON — Clark Clifford, who will be sworn in as Secretary of Defense on March 1, has been doing some frank talking about the administration's most recent unsuccessful effort to get the North Vietnamese to the conference table.

In a background briefing on Vietnam, Clifford told a group of Democratic lawmakers that "we were played for fools by Hanoi during the surprise Communist Tet holiday offensive."

"It will never happen again," Clifford assured the legislators after several had assailed President Johnson's decision to ban all bombing in a ten mile area of Hanoi and Haiphong during his latest peace offensive.

"In the future the North Vietnamese will have to make their proposals directly to us," stated Clifford. "We are through going to them. They know exactly where President Johnson stands and if they are serious about wanting to talk they can call us."

WASHINGTON PIPELINE — Representative Melvin Laird, R-Wis., powerful chairman of the Republican Conference, is coming out against the President's travel tax program. Representative Laird took his stand after conferring with Representative John Byrnes, the ranking GOP member of the tax-writing House Ways & Means Committee.

Secretary of State Rusk was the unidentified high-level administration official who recently blew up at Washington newsmen for the questions they were asking about Vietnam. . . . An estimated 80 per cent of the fresh water on earth is in the form of ice or snow. That is one of the most startling findings of the international Hydrological Decade (1965-75) Commission.

Stories Behind Words

By William Penfield

Sabbatical Year

Hebrew law compelled the ancient Jews to let their fields lie idle every seventh year. The idea was to give the land a rest so that it could enrich itself.

The Hebrew word for rest was "shabbath." From it came "Sabbath" (a sacred day of rest) and "sabbatical" (of or pertaining to rest). The year that the field lay fallow was called the "sabbatical year."

Some colleges and universities, adapting the ancient idea, grant faculty members an extended leave every seventh year. The purpose of the "sabbatical year" is to give the faculty members an opportunity to enrich themselves through rest, travel and study.

Virus in medicine

The peaceful little town of Mount Vernon, New York, publishes dynamite. The editors of Consumer Reports put out a $1.50 soft-cover book called "Medicine Show." The content is so revolutionary that, after the first 50 pages, I didn't know whether to shoot my doctor, my pharmacist, or the men who wrote it.

The American Medical Association, I feel, should either refute the findings of this book, or admit that it has not kept America properly informed. "The Medicine Show," for example, states: "The only significant difference among brands of aspirin, plain or buffered, is price. . . . all aspirin is pretty much the same." If

This is true, then brand names, carefully nurtured and advertised, go down the drain. The AMA employs a big public relations organization that every physician member must help to pay for.

How about it?

In another section, the book says that Americans lose almost five billion dollars a year in working time because of the common cold. In addition, they spend $350 million for cold remedies. This is a lot of money, a lot of time. Science advances by leaps and bounds in its battle against cancer and cardio-vascular disease, but hasn't the remotest notion of how to cure a cold.

Americans average three per year. This comes to 600 million colds. It is thought that the cold comes from a group of unidentified viruses. There is no anti-virus drug, no reliable vaccine. Building resistance by proper diet has failed. Sometimes, at the insistence of the patient, the doctor will administer antibiotics.

Tongue a barometer

Is the color or the dryness of the tongue a sign of some body disorder?

The condition and the appearance of the tongue has been a source of fascination to many people. The very first thing that they do on arising is to carefully inspect it and if they are satisfied with its appearance go their merry way with a feeling of well-being. If it is coated or dry, some people are certain that they should "feel awful" and that their health will correspond with its appearance.

Actually, the tongue is a most important index to the physician of a variety of conditions. A swollen tongue may be due to an allergy to drugs, mouth rinses and to infection.

White patches, called leukoplakia, may be the result of chronic burning from a hot pipe. Rough edges of teeth and poorly fitting dentures may cause these white patches or ulceration of the tongue.

After severe illnesses or surgery the moisture, of the tongue is a good sign of the fluid balance of the body. A very smooth tongue is seen frequently in pernicious anemia with an inadequate amount of B12 in the body, and in iron deficiency anemia.

Some acute infections, especially scarlet fever, are accompanied by red "strawberry" tongue. Allergy to antibiotics may cause ulcerations and gray patches over the tongue.

Fungal infections of the tongue are readily recognized. Thrush, especially in children, covers the tongue with a white, fluffy, cloud-like growth. Paralysis of the muscles of the tongue have important meanings to the doctor. The tongue, both front and back, can be tested for sensitivity of taste. It is a most interesting phenomenon that a tiny nerve in the middle ear can affect taste in the back of the tongue.

A deficiency of riboflavin, a vitamin, sometimes causes a pretty magenta-colored tongue.

This high-rise apartment is strictly for the birds

EAST STROUDSBURG — A housing development which its sponsors hope will double the population of purple martins in East Stroudsburg, has been launched by Mrs. William C. Dievler, Monroe County Garden Club bird chairman.

The 12-apartment purple martin birdhouse which has housed a summer colony since 1910, according to Mrs. Harold Lanterman, club vice president, will have a modern annex if present plans work out.

Martins, whose ability to consume 2,000 flying insects every day, has made them a favorite with conservationists, are city birds at heart, preferring apartments to single dwellings, and city streets or busy backyards to secluded woodlands.

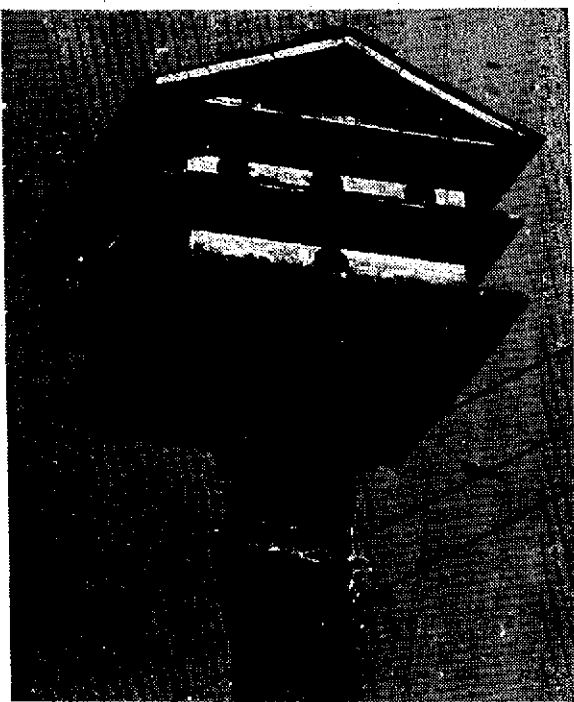

However, they are not slum dwellers, preferring clean apartments each year. With the present martin house at the corner of Crystal and Ananias Streets near the present post office, the task of house-cleaning between tenants has been done by the East Stroudsburg firemen according to Norman Gregory, postmaster for many years.

The 12-apartment martin house which the Garden Club hopes to add will be of aluminum, with hinged compartments to permit cleaning and a roof which will reflect 46 per cent of the summer heat. Mrs. Dievler hopes to obtain the house, which sells for about $40, free, through 25 subscriptions to the Purple Martin Capital News, published in Griggsville, Ill., a city known as the "Purple Martin Capital of the World."

Jaycees in Griggsville have lined both sides of a whole street with purple martin houses and this year erected the largest in the world, 40 feet high and with 500 apartments.

Martin houses should be at least 14 feet from the ground to protect the nestlings from cats and other ground marauders and with a clear space about 25 feet in circumference to permit the swooping and diving maneuvers by which the martins catch their food, particularly mosquitoes, in mid air.

The open space at the present location by the railroad station is ideal in this respect and the pole will be provided and erected by the Metropolitan Edison Co.

Sample copies of the Purple Martin News are on display at WVPO and at the East Stroudsburg Post Office. Subscriptions or donations may be sent to Mrs. William C. Dievler, Beacon Hill Road, East Stroudsburg R.D. 3, Box 476.

Since the purple martins are already starting their journey north, Mrs. Dievler hopes to have prompt action in order to have the new subdivision ready for inspection when their advance scouts make their home-hunting, mosquito-counting expedition.

The new martin house, Mrs. Dievler pointed out, is scientifically designed to discourage starlings who prefer dark, dingy nesting places.

Recreation basic with more leisure

STROUDSBURG — Miss Helen G. Brown, director of recreation at East Stroudsburg State College, spoke on many facets of recreation at the meeting of the Monroe County Garden Club at the YMCA.

Assisted by students, John Pitzer and Marilyn Storch, she showed slides and narrated their experiences camping in national and state parks.

Highlights of her talk included the role of conservation with Americans, not as predators or destroyers, but preservers. Recreation is a many-splendored thing, she said, and a basic human need which increases with increasing leisure time.

Recreation College Council at East Stroudsburg State College is the only student council in the country to have bought a farm, it was pointed out. The Stony Acres Camp at Marshalls Creek was purchased by the association in 1962 as an off-campus recreation area for women students.

Mrs. Jacob Z. Hartman presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin, roadside chairman, had arranged a patriotic display table including parchment copies of the Declaration of Independence and Star Spangled Banner; book on the flag of the United States and a Betsy Ross doll presented to her at the luncheon of the National Council of State Garden Clubs in Philadelphia.

In the horticulture display, Mrs. A. Starr Phelps explained her plant, billbergia Mutans, related to the pineapple family, on which there were three cerise buds.

Artistic arrangements were displayed by Mrs. Harold Gave, Mrs. Mark L. Bristol, Mrs. George T. Walker, Mrs. J. Harold Lanterman, Mrs. Jacob Z. Hartman and Mrs. William G. Dievler.

Guests included Mrs. Clement Price and Mrs. William Savitz. Tea table decorations incorporated Valentines Day, with Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays. In the background a large red heart was trimmed with red satin ribbon, white paper lace and white mums and Japanese yew with red carnations and white mums as a centerpiece.

On the refreshment table a small yew was trimmed with cherries and surrounded with ceramic hearts, miniature valentines and cupid.

The decorations were by the committee, Mrs. Ernest Schwartz, Mrs. Russell E. Hamblin, Mrs. Richard M. Gordon, Mrs. Edward P. Newberry, Mrs. John W. Robertson, Miss Anna Courtwright, Mrs. Clifford R. Kintner, chairman of the day, and Miss Grace Dreher poured.

Cherry tree legend

Cheery cherry recipes

BY LINDA PIPHER
Pocono Record Home Economist

STROUDSBURG — If you're entertaining this week I'd like to tell you about a cherry tree that you can make and your guests can eat! Of course, it's perfect for George Washington's birthday time but really can be used at any time of the year.

Maraschino cherries are put on toothpicks and stuck into a big styrofoam ball which makes the top of a tropy tree. It can be made up well ahead of time and refrigerated until you're ready to use it for a centerpiece or dessert or both. When ready to "Eat your tree" you supply a bowl of melted chocolate chips and guests pluck a cherry and swirl in the chocolate. Doesn't that sound good?

Cherry Tropy Tree
Insert a dowel (not more than one inch in diameter and eight inches high) in a 4 inch flower pot. Fill with pebbles, marbles, putty or any substance that will hold the dowel in place. Spray white, green or gold. Insert dowel (sprayed to match), in pot. Place a styrofoam ball five to six inches in diameter atop the dowel. If you do not have a styrofoam ball, crumple aluminum foil into shape of a sphere and use instead. Cover sphere with foil.

Using whole toothpicks, attach well drained cherries to sphere. You will need about two 1 lb. jars of red maraschino cherries. Refrigerate until needed.

Chocolate Dipping Sauce
1 package (12 oz.) semi-sweet

Chocolate pieces
1 cherry filled tropy tree
Melt chocolate over hot (not boiling) water. Remove from heat and serve. Keep warm over hot tray if desired. Remove cherries from cherry tropy tree and dip in melted chocolate, swirling to coat. Eat immediately. Or, place on wax paper and refrigerate.

You'll have to serve cherries in some form to your family tomorrow in order to honor the Father of our country! I'll bet they would like cherry dumplings cooked in hot cherry sauce.

Cherry Dumplings
1 can (16 oz.) red sour, pitted cherries
¾ cup sugar
1 cup sifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons shortening
1 egg, slightly beaten
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon almond extract
2 tablespoons butter or margarine

Boil cherries and sugar in a large frying-pan for 3 minutes. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Cut shortening into dry ingredients until crumbs are about the size of small peas. Combine egg, milk, vanilla and almond extract. Add to dry ingredients, mixing only until moistened.

Add butter or margarine to cherry sauce and bring to a boil. Stir well. Drop dumplings by spoonfuls into boiling cherry sauce, making 6 to 8 dumplings. Cover tightly, reduce heat and simmer 16 to 20 minutes. Serve hot. Top with cream, if desired. To make the traditional cherry pie, I drain a can of cherries and add enough water to the juice to make one cup liquid. Then I thicken the juice over heat by mixing 2 ½ cup sugar with 2 to 3 tablespoons cornstarch, then adding the liquid gradually. After it is thickened I remove it from the heat and add a pat of butter and ½ teaspoon almond extract. While this is cooling I make pastry for a two-crust pie, fill the pie and bake it in a 425 deg. oven for 30 minutes.

Here's another favorite of ours:

Cherry Chocolate Cake
3 cups all purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking soda dissolved in 1 teaspoon vinegar
¼ (heaping) teaspoon salt
¾ cup butter
2 eggs
1½ teaspoons vanilla
3 squares bittersweet chocolate, melted
½ cup buttermilk
½ cup chopped maraschino cherries, well-drained
One-third cup maraschino juice
½ cup chopped nuts, walnuts or pecans

Cream butter with sugar; beat in eggs; add vanilla, and melted chocolate, and continue to beat. Fold in soda-vinegar mixture. Sift flour with salt, and add it alternately to batter with buttermilk. Fold in cherries, cherry juice, and nuts. Pour into two greased and floured pans and bake in a 350 degree oven for 25 to 30 minutes.

RICH COMPANION FROSTING: Cream 1 box of powdered sugar with 2 sticks butter. Add 5 squares melted bittersweet chocolate. Fold in 2 beaten eggs, one at a time. Flavor to taste with vanilla.

Just Between Us—

By Bobby Westbrook

After a weekend when the house was filled with the children's record player: music to march to, music to fly to, and Jennifer's favorite, "monster music," Monday morning was so quiet that it echoed.

And pleasantly haunted by memories of her first "skating" expedition during which I discovered where all the ten-to-twelve year-olds in the country apparently are on Saturdays — at the Ice-rama.

While her skating at first consisted mainly of running in place until she fell down fore or aft, she did manage to modify it with a forward motion that eventually got her around the rink with no more than ten falls per round. The main problem was to get her to stop.

There was no stopping Peter's 16-month-old mechanical experiments: nothing in the house that turned, pulled, screwed or zipped remained unturned, unpulled, unscrewed or unzipped. It's really quite dull around here with nothing moving but me.

Speaking of moving, Mrs. Dievler explained that they're not replacing the purple martin apartment house at the station just adding another one. Purple martins become quite attached to their old homes and may reject a new one unless it is used as an annex to the old one.

Nobody it seems has a good word for starlings, and I notice the new house has been scientifically designed to discourage them taking over. Starlings have to live, too, I suppose, but they're awkward, homely, greedy loud-mouths.

Well, anyway, the editorial offices have a front row seat for our own bird sanctuary: the starlings who cover the big tree across the street as thickly as leaves each dusk, and purple martins who have a long-term lease on the house the Whittles made for them in the garden.

Trucks missing

Members of East Stroudsburg's Acme Hose Co. had a big laugh among themselves and at their own expense last week during a very minor fire at the Town and Country Shop, on Courtland St. As the alarm sounded, firemen raced toward the scene on foot. When all had assembled, it was discovered that one item was missing — the fire trucks.

Nobody had bothered stopping by the firehouse, which was located only four doors away.

Rifle funds

George Smith of Tannersville and some of his friends are a bit angry that a soldier who lost his rifle in Vietnam has been ordered to pay the government $71.20, the cost of the M-14.

Smith is heading a local drive to raise the money, but now his biggest problem is locating the GI.

Public interest

Glen Snyder, chief of the West End Fire Co., was highly pleased at the recent "wet down" conducted in Brodheadsville, as over 100 firemen from 12 companies attended.

However, the West End firemen were generally disappointed in the lack of interest shown by the public served by the company.

Surprised again

Peter Maaser, steward of George N. Kemp Post American Legion in East Stroudsburg, Saturday surprised himself for the second time since a burglar alarm has been installed in the building.

Saturday Maaser opened the door to go to work and forgot to turn off the alarm system. Bells rang and lights flashed.

It was reported that just as the alarm was tripped East Stroudsburg Police passed by in the patrol car, hesitated and then asked Maaser if he needed any help.

Five acres of land burns

SNYDERSVILLE — Blue Ridge Hook Ladder Co. from Saylorsburg was called Monday at 12:15 p.m. to the property of Elmer Burke to extinguish a grass and brush fire.

George Kitchen, fire chief, said the blaze started when sparks from burning rubbish ignited the grass.

About five acres were burned off before firemen could douse the flames, Kitchen said.

Route 209 plans gain general approval during public hearing at Brodheadsville

By GIL MURRAY
Record News Editor

BRODHEADSVILLE — An elderly McIlhenny resident Tuesday made a stirring plea to save her home from being included in the path of the proposed relocation of Rt. 209 from Sciota to Brodheadsville.

Mrs. August Beckman, wife of a Chestnut Hill justice of the peace, said that if the Pennsylvania Department of Highways approves the present relocation route, 1970 will find the Beckmans celebrating their golden wedding anniversary "homeless."

Mrs. Beckman was one of eight persons who testified Monday during a public hearing on the proposed $4,290,000 project in the auditorium at Pleasant Valley High School, Brodheadsville.

All of the witnesses agreed that the improvement of the highway is necessary and in general agreed with the department's plan.

Interchange near school
Plans call for the 4.5-mile stretch to start with a clover leaf interchange just southwest of the high school. The four-lane, limited access highway would pass on the south side of Brodheadsville, cut northeast past McIlhenny and connect with existing Rt. 209 at Sciota.

Robert Brown, the department's district location engineer in Allentown, said that any serious opposition to the project would delay construction "indefinitely."

Brown said the route was selected only after three alternate routes were studied and rejected for various reasons. He termed the suggested route "the cheapest" of the four studied and said it "would help the most people

Self-help course set for C.D.

STROUDSBURG — A Medical Self-help course sponsored by the Monroe County Civil Defense Chapter will begin Thursday, March 7, in the CD offices in the courthouse basement.

The course will be held in six sessions each Thursday from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m.

In addition to the self-help training program a Radiological Monitoring course will be given starting Tuesday, March 5, from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in the same location.

The Medical Self-help course is built around a basic course of instruction covering the following subjects:

Radioactive fallout and shelter, healthful living in emergencies, artificial respiration, bleeding and bandaging, fractures and splinting, transportation of the injured.

Other divisions
The program of instruction will also cover burns, shock, nursing care of the sick and injured, infant and child care and emergency childbirth.

The subject material has been arranged for presentation in 11 lessons comprising a 16-hour course of instruction. In order to provide an easy method of instruction a special training kit has been developed for teaching purposes.

Students of the course will be taught through the latest means of visual aids and text material according to local CD officials.

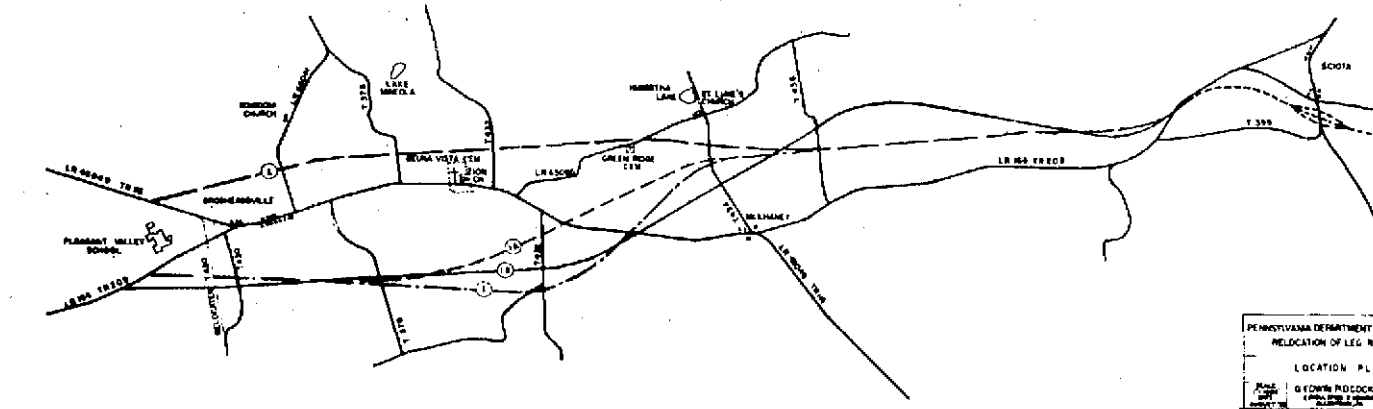

It has been the wish of both the Federal and state government that at least one person from each family be a graduate of the course within the next five years.

In Pennsylvania, the course has been reviewed and approved by representatives of the Pennsylvania Society, the state Osteopathic Association and the American Red Cross.

Anyone interested in the course is asked to contact the Monroe County Civil Defense offices in the Monroe County Courthouse.

and hurt the least."

Local people who testified, in addition to Mrs. Beckman, were Mrs. Gladys Kresge, secretary to the Chestnut Hill supervisors; Attorney Walter Olenick, representing the Hamilton Twp. supervisors; Leonard Ziolkowski, director of the Monroe County Planning Commission; Dr. John Martucci, Brodheadsville; Mrs. Talitha Bush, Brodheadsville;

Joseph Decker, a Pleasant Valley school director, and Edgar Bird Jr., Belvidere, N.J., son of the owner of Joppet Farms.

Mrs. Beckman said she and her husband are "utterly opposed" to the highway which would take their home and property.

She was applauded after saying she could not believe that the government would be so "callous" as to "deny us the fruits of our labors."

Dr. Martucci speaks

Dr. Martucci said the new highway is needed immediately. The Brodheadsville physician said he has pronounced eight persons dead from accidents on the present Rt. 209 in the last 21 years.

"Someone is going to have to suffer to bring this highway to our community," he said. Martucci also owns property which would be taken for the highway.

Mrs. Altomose said the Chestnut Hill supervisors feel that the interchange should remain south of Brodheadsville and that certain school bus routes should not be closed by the construction. The supervisors also urged adequate ingress and egress to Joppet Farms, which is a restaurant between Sciota and Brodheadsville.

Olenick said the Hamilton supervisors feel that a two-lane bridge should be built over the proposed highway to provide a link between Township Rt. 164 in McIlhenny and present Rt. 209.

Ziolkowski said the planning commission approved the plan, but criticized the highway department for not presenting an overall plan for future highway development in the county.

In a prepared statement, Ziolkowski said the planning commission should be:

"In a position to know the broad highway network plans of the department in the county and the region. Be aware of the impact of the proposed highway on the other major and collector road systems with the area."

Pocono approves ordinance

TANNERSVILLE — A Pocono Township Subdivision Ordinance was passed Tuesday night during a meeting of the township supervisors.

The legislation, ordinance number four, regulates and controls the subdivision of land and the approval of plans, plots, or re-plots in the township. The new ordinance will also cover the construction of roads and streets in the municipality.

The minimum lot size under the ordinance will be 20,000 square feet if the lot is not serviced by public water or sewage.

Lots shall not have less than 80 feet of road frontage, nor less than 100 feet in width at the proposed building line.

The ordinance also specifies that if public water or sewerage, or both, are to be supplied the minimum lot size shall be 12,000 square feet with a minimum 80-foot front.

Road specifications
Specifications for roads are also set in relation to existing minimum standard set by the state.

The ordinance calls for an application fee of $35 per 25 lots for subdivision plans.

An additional charge of $15 shall be made if revisions are requested to final plans. A $10 fee shall be paid with the submission of all preliminary plans and a $25 fee for all plans submitted for final approval.

TANNERSVILLE — Funeral services for Mrs. Lydia Hay, 87, Henryville Rd., were held Tuesday afternoon in the Gantzhorn Funeral Home with the Rev. Elmer Meissner officiating.

Burial was in the Stroudsburg Cemetery.

Pallbearers were: Paul Edinger, Jr., George Parker, James Hay, and Kenneth, Robert and William Williams.

Planners to study Price plot

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Subdivision Committee reviewed the amended plotting plan of Timber Hill, Inc. Price Township, for over an hour Tuesday night and deferred approval of the plan subject to further study by the Planning Committee.

The subcommittee's advisory engineer, William Hopkins, recommended that a profile on an intersection in the amended plot be lengthened to 60 degrees.

Earlier in the discussion Hopkins said that the plan still lacked an overall road layout and that the 12-foot-wide bridge leading into Timber Hill could be termed a hazard.

Leonard Ziolkowski told Ken Nichols, manager of Timber Hill and its solicitor J. Joseph McCuskey, that the committee could not give its approval until the group presents an overall map of all development plots and road systems.

McCuskey replied it wasn't practical to give the committee a plot covering all of Timber Hill's 1,000 acres since some of the acres involved the ski area. He said that Stanley Newman, chairman of Price Township's supervisors, had no objection to the present plans, providing the proposed new bridge will be two-lane and that the group back top roads if the township takes them over.

The discussion involved the definition of a collector's road. Jay Snyder, assistant planner, said that Price Township's engineer labelled one of the main roads running through Timber Hill as a collector's road.

Ziolkowski defined a collector's road as a "collector's street, one which intersects minor streets."

But McCuskey said that the second part of the definition, a road with a daily car count of between 750 and 4,000 cars, did not apply to the road in question.

Paved roads
On the subject of paved roads, Nichols said that one Timber Hill lot owner told him he didn't want paved roads because they could increase vehicular speed and prove dangerous to children. Nichols maintained that Timber Hill wanted to maintain a private road system.

Ziolkowski said that there is an apparent need for the subdivision committee to work with the supervisors in future dovetailing of plans.

McCuskey said that Timber Hill would like approval of the amended plotting plan as soon as possible. "If we don't start lot development this spring, we'll lose another year," he said referring to the development of the amended plot plan. He told the committee Newman had given his oral approval to the amended plan.

Ziolkowski said that the subdivision committee will present the amended plot plan to the planners for approval at a special meeting later in the month and that he will also consult with planning chairman Marshall Reese and solicitor, Elmer D. Christine.

Mount Pocono burglary trial begins

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County trial of William C. Hughes, Tobyhanna, and Neil "Butch" Cornwell, Tobyhanna, will continue today at 10 a.m. in the county courthouse.

The pair has been charged by the Commonwealth in connection with an alleged burglary at a home owned by Eugene Locke, fixed base operator at the Pocono Mountains Airport in Mount Pocono.

Cornwell is charged with burglary while Hughes has been indicted for receiving stolen goods and as an accessory after the fact.

Both are being prosecuted by Officer John Sarosky, Mt. Pocono State Police. Monroe County District Attorney Philip Williams opened the case for the Commonwealth.

Defense counselors are Peter J. O'Brien for Hughes, and Philip P. Santucci for Cornwell. Called to the stand for the prosecution by Williams was William Powlett, Mt. Pocono, who testified he aided in the arrest of the two defendants through information he passed to state police.

According to Powlett both Cornwell and Hughes had been regular customers at his restaurant and at one time had "done some work for him."

Powlett is the owner of Powlett's Restaurant in Mt. Pocono and is also a state fish warden and was a deputy game protector at the time of the alleged robbery last October.

Cornwell is charged with the theft of three guns from the home owned by Locke.

Cornwell allegedly was painting the home for Locke, who had not yet moved into the house at the time.

Locke testified he owned the guns and they were in the basement of the house before he moved in.

The guns were a semi-automatic rifle model, a 30-30 deer rifle, and a Savage combination called an "ever and under" weapon.

According to testimony admitted during Tuesday's sessions Cornwell allegedly knew of the guns being at the house and, according to testimony by Powlett, sold one of the stolen weapons to him for $50.

Powlett testified he had been asked by Officer Sarosky to help in the case after the theft had been reported.

Powlett testified that he purchased one of the guns, the semi-automatic, from Cornwell which he delivered, and later checked state police serial numbers to determine if it was the weapon reported stolen.

The case for the Commonwealth rested Tuesday afternoon.

Only a pile of rubble remains of three homes at the corner of East Brown and Prospect streets in East Stroudsburg as the property is being prepared for a new gas station. In the upper left corner, the General Hospital of Monroe County may be seen through the trees.

Property cleared for gas station

EAST STROUDSBURG — The last of three homes on East Brown St. near Prospect, in East Stroudsburg, were torn down Tuesday to make room for a new gasoline station, according to Donald Gage, assistant borough manager.

Also planned by the Charles Kahn Co. of Philadelphia, developers, is a new restaurant on the site.

The three properties were purchased from Mrs. Gladys Haymer, 157 E. Brown St.; Arthur Elnoff, 161 E. Brown St.

and Cyrus Smith, 163 E. Brown St.

Contracts for construction of a gas station by the Texaco Co. have not yet been let.

Demolition of the buildings is being done by the Papillon Excavating Co.

The Rev. William Wunder, 229 S. Courtland Street, East Stroudsburg, caught this 16-inch, 1 3/4-pound yellow perch last week at Whittaker's Pond, Bushkill. Fish warden Walter Burkhardt said it was one of the largest fish of this kind ever reported in the area.

Kentucky, Duke move up in poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Kentucky and Duke registered the largest gains in The Associated Press college basketball poll Monday while Marquette replaced Tennessee on the list of ranking teams.

There were no changes in the top four listing as Houston remained a solid leader followed by UCLA, North Carolina and St. Bonaventure.

Kentucky advanced from eighth place to fifth after defeating Tennessee and Mississippi State last week. Duke, an easy winner over Wake Forest and Temple, climbed two notches to eighth.

Houston, unbeaten in 23 games, collected 28 first place votes and 332 points in the voting by a national panel of 34 sports writers and broadcasters based on games through last Saturday. The Cougars beat Miami, Fla., 106-84 and Air Force 106-82 in last week's games.

UCLA, 20-1, the lone setback by Houston, drew eight first place votes and 314 points. The Bruins downed Oregon 119-78 and Oregon State 88-71.

North Carolina downed North Carolina State, Clemson and South Carolina for a 20-1 mark. St. Bonaventure lifted its mark to 18-0 by edging Seton Hall 81-71 in overtime.

Columbia held the No. 6 spot, New Mexico slipped from fifth to seventh and Vanderbilt remained in ninth.

The Top Ten, based on games through Saturday, Feb. 17, and total points on a 10-9-8 etc. basis:

1. Houston	332
2. UCLA	314
3. North Carolina	266
4. St. Bonaventure	232
5. Kentucky	199
6. Columbia	129
7. New Mexico	123
8. Duke	102
9. Vanderbilt	95
10. Marquette	25

Ex-Easton star mixes football and music

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Ray Rissmiller started singing in public at the age of 10 in a Pennsylvania church choir. Now, the 6-foot-5, 250-pound offensive tackle of the New Orleans Saints is performing off-season in a Bourbon Street bistro and packing 'em in.

"I love to entertain and be in front of people," says Rissmiller. "I love songs with soul and meaning."

Rissmiller, a free wheeling bachelor, lives most of the time in his own world of professional football and music. He mixes a devotion to what he terms "soul music" with an unbridled appetite for good food.

Always, he tells you, football is No. 1 in his life.

Admittedly an extrovert by every standard now, Ray wasn't always one.

"I remember back when I was a kid in Easton, Pa.," he recalls.

"Once I was in a Sunday School play when I was about 10. Right before the play, I cried because I was scared to death. Frightened. Then, this new minister took over the church and formed a choir. My dad made me become a part of it because he thought I could sing a little."

Rissmiller's interest in music continued when he went to the University of Georgia on a football scholarship. Later, as a player with the Philadelphia Eagles, he recorded a song called, "Big Ray."

Obtained by the Saints last spring in the expansion draft, Ray fell in love with New Orleans, its haute cuisine and highlively nightlife — which exists almost round-the-clock.

"I feel like I will make it as a singer," he observes. "If I see that I can't get the job done with the voice, then I'll step aside just like I'll do in football."

Scott new point leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Scott of Alabama State has taken over the lead from Mike Davis of Virginia Union in the race for the basketball scoring title in the NCAA's College Division.

Scott has a 36.1 average in 19 games through competition of last Saturday night. Davis was second with 34.5 for 17 games.

The official statistics were released Friday by the National Collegiate Sports Services.

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Put forth your finest endeavors and carry out your best intentions now. There's nothing to stop you from scoring a dandy record!

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — You may face some unexpected situations, some unforeseen changes. Accept all with your innately gracious manner. They could turn out unexpectedly well.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Not too much planetary help now, but if you make the best use of the Gemini's fine intelligence and willingness to forego personal desires when necessity demands, you should be able to handle all situations and hurdle obstacles easily.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — Admonitions for this day: Be self-confident, but not BLINDLY optimistic. Take care of personal interests, but without anxiety; avoid hypersensitivity.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — You could be tempted to turn from a profitable to an obstacle-ridden course. Avoid, by considering the whole picture—especially where the future is concerned. No impetuosity.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — Present planetary influences suggest some extra care. Make all decisions thoughtfully, study every situation thoroughly and be alert to the undesirable aspects of each.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Some hours may be trying, but here's where the Libran's innately philosophical attitude and fine sense of balance will be a big help. Don't let down in your enthusiasm even if you face disappointments.

October 24 to November 23 (Scorpio) — Don't cross bridges before you come to them, but be ready for any eventuality before it occurs. Curb irritability, "nerves" and, above all, don't lose your temper — no matter what the provocation.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — Note Scorpio. Your advice similar. You could cause unnecessary misunderstandings by involving yourself in the affairs of others. Avoid, too, under-evaluating others' abilities and overrating yourself. It's the type of day when you could try to take on JUST TOO MUCH!

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — Give a little extra time to matters which have been neglected, and remain flexible in your thinking, but DON'T go to extremes. Stress your inherent good sense.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Don't overlook small details in your anxiety to get on with BIGGER things. Remember that details are important to the whole picture. Influences fairly generous.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — With a brisk start and ambition soaring. You should be able to accomplish a great deal now. Favorable Neptune influences are on your side.

YOU BORN TODAY are personable, hard-working, roundly talented — especially along creative lines. Despite the fact that you like to work on your own initiative, you can, however, follow orders "to the letter" — and willingly.

Dominating factors in your success pattern: Intuition, upon which you usually act promptly, ability to judge what others need and desire and general efficiency in handling responsibilities. You are generous, fun-loving, should attract many friends; may have an unusually strong interest in the occult. Birthdate of: Cardinal Newman, clergyman, writer; W. H. Auden, famed poet.

Restaurants, Taverns, places to dine and dance and attraction spots... you can place your advertising message in a space this size each week-end for only $7.50... even less under contract. Phone 421-3000, display advertising department now!

SPECIAL WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY

We Will Install a SAAB AM-FM Radio FREE With The Purchase of A New SAAB

Offers Good Until February 24th

It does things other small cars shouldn't do.

Cornering at high speeds is one of the last things to expect small cars to do, successfully. Unless it's a SAAB, the out-of-the-ordinary small car. Out of the ordinary because it has front-wheel drive. So it doesn't push you around like others do. It pulls you around corners, curves and other drivers' mistakes. Is that all SAAB has? Not on your life. Most ordinary cars don't give you, even as options, all the standard SAAB safety features. As an optional extra, our new V-4 engine has a LIFETIME GUARANTEE.

SAAB
 You can drive it like a big car.

Opening lead — nine of spades.

Dear Mr. Becker: I been reading your columns lately and I figure you play pretty good. I wanted to ask your opinion on a hand we played at the club yesterday.

The way I look at it my partner shouldn't have bid seven but he did. This don't make sense to me because here we got a 700-point rubber stashed away and 750 for a little slam, and he takes a gamble to lose the whole thing just to try and make a big slam. This don't look like good percentage to me.

But here I am, and I've got to do the best I can. So I look the dummy over very careful and I see I have to lose a heart because I can't eat it, unless maybe I can con these guys out of it.

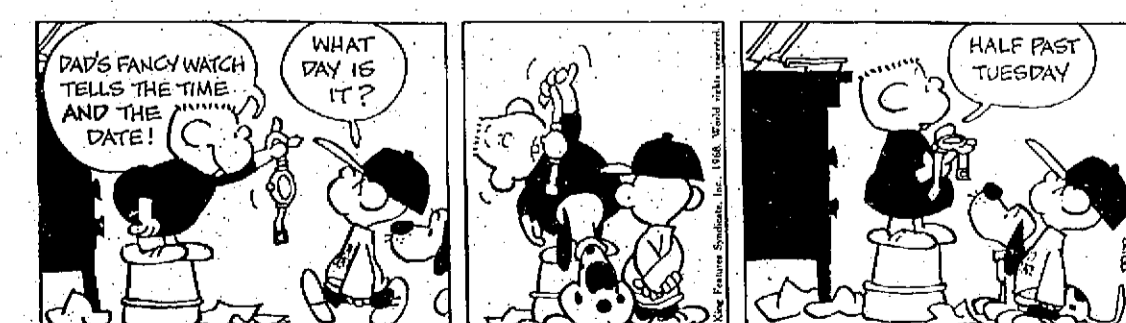

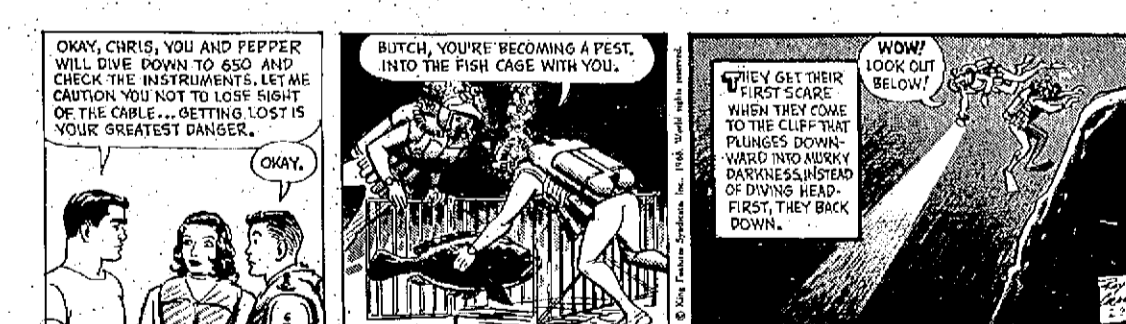

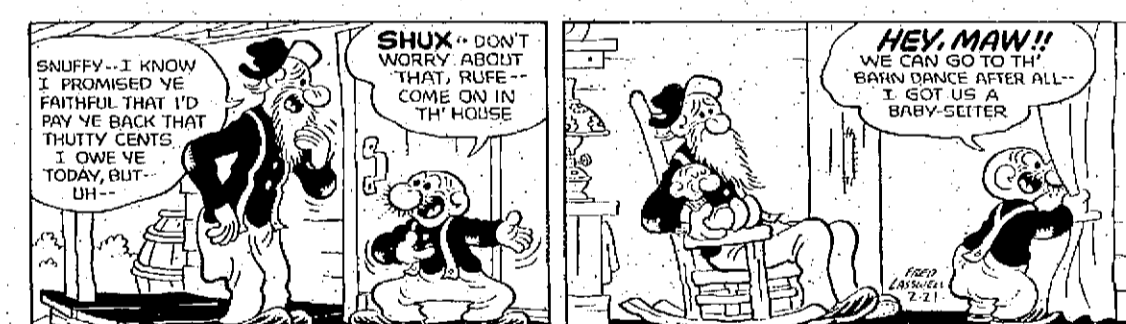

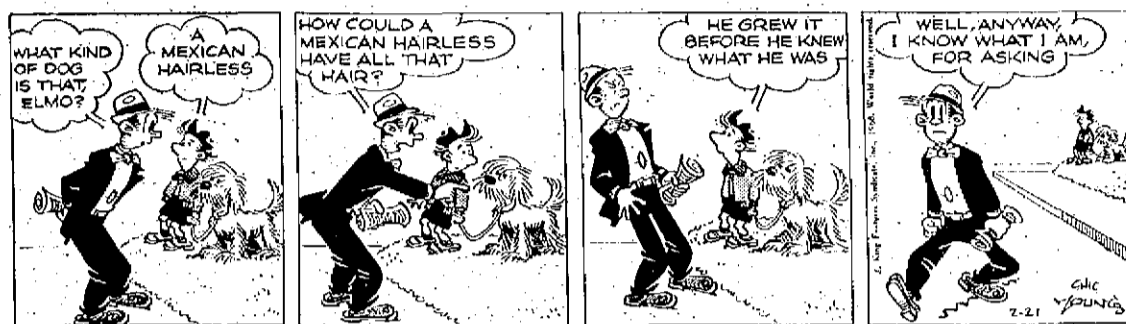

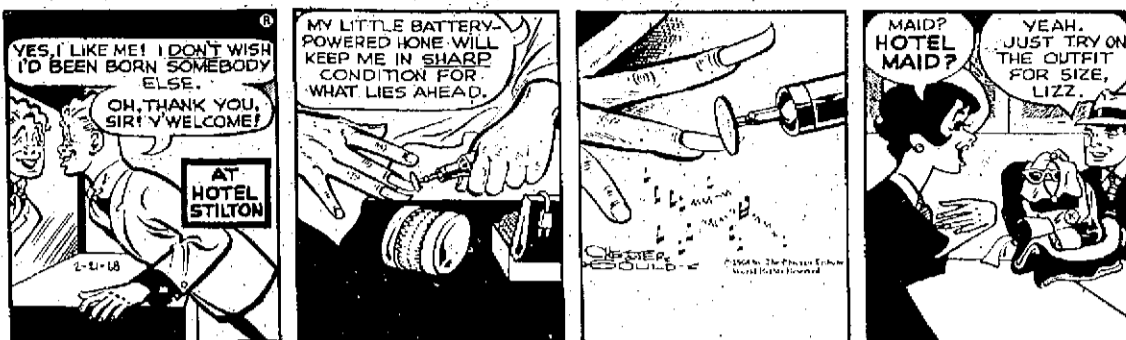

This fellow sitting East, his name is Charlie Four Cents, he can't beat his way out of a paper bag. If I can give him the office I've got a chance, because he don't really know from nothing.

So I start pulling trumps and I keep pulling them till I don't have any more left. I'm hoping Charlie will get mixed up. Next I run the A-K-Q of clubs and when I cash the queen Four Cents looks worried.

You see, dummy by this time has the K-3 of spades and nine of hearts. Charlie don't know what to throw because he's got the Q-J of spades and K-Q of hearts.

Would you believe it, Mr. Becker, he threw the queen of hearts and made my A-10 good and we knocked off the grand slam. I tell you this fellow don't know what time of day it is. Should my partner have bid seven? Yours truly, Butch.

Dear Butch: I don't think so, but I've been wrong before. I wouldn't squawk if I were you. Just keep on playing your cards the way you played them this hand and Four Cents will be out of money in no time.
